Dear FiberMark Customer,

Based on the experience, understanding, and efforts of our Research and Development personnel, we are confident that our products do not contain lead and/or phthalates in any significant amount other than potential ambient or trace amounts. We do not use these substances as intended ingredients, we do not believe they are present as significant raw material contaminants, and we do not anticipate their generation as by-products in our manufacturing processes.

Recent quantitative evaluations of many of our products confirm that lead and phthalate test results are significantly below the CPSIA threshold limits (some are below the non-detect limit). If you need specific and lab-certified test results, please contact your FiberMark Sales Executive at your earliest convenience.

As I'm sure you know, the Consumer Product Safety Commission Release #09-115, dated January 30, 2009 has provided for a one-year stay of testing and certification requirements for certain products. The stay will remain in effect until February 10, 2010. We intend to continue our quantitative testing and certification initiatives as needed, but wanted to make sure you were aware of this much-appreciated delay.

FiberMark has a diverse multi-functional team of senior management and seasoned research professionals who review our products and regularly seek to maintain and/or advance the environmental and health standards when opportunities arise. We believe our products are always appropriate choices to achieve the desired functional and design benefits when used as intended. If we determine that the opinion regarding the presence of lead and/or phthalates and the CPSIA as expressed in this letter is no longer applicable, we will amend this statement as soon as practicable.

Please contact your FiberMark Sales Executive if you have further questions.

Regards,
